TAX RETURNS

Groups of Affiliated Corporations May Make Consolidated Returns.

An amendment to the revenue bill to permit groups of corporations owned in whole or in part by a taxpayer or by another corporation to make a "consolidated return" in computing the income tax was adopted by the State Finance Committee yesterday. The House bill contained a specife provision against such consolidation of returns and required each individual corporation to make a separate filing each individual corporation to make a separate filing.

The Senate Committee amendment is regarded as of vital importance to business generally, as it not only simplifies the method of making the returns, thereby lightening the administrative duties of the collector, but it will enable a holding corporation, for instance, to make one return instead of a half dozen or more where there are a number of smaller corporations affiliated with it in interest. The committee made it mandatory upon such taxpayers to file a consolv ipon such taxpayers to file a consc

Drafted by Treasury.

The amendment was drafted by the Treasury Department and was sub-mitted with the approval of Internal mitted with the approval of Internal Revenue Commissioner Roper, whe urged its adoption in the interest of simplicity in the administration of the law.
